CLOUDY GOBIE

Rarely seen and almost impossible to photograph as they are so transparent, we spotted this little guy hiding under the reef at 20'. He is only about an inch long...zoom in on him and you will be able to see right through him! This goby usually lives on muddy or silty bottoms, away from reefs either in highly protected areas or at sufficient depth offshore to be protected from surge. Thought to be endemic, they grow to about 2".
